North Star Indicator #8

Land Use, Physical Improvements, Community Stability and Safety

Cities and counties, with state and tribal partners, include health and safety considerations throughout their general plans and/or create health development guidelines. Cap and Trade Auction Proceeds are allocated to and prioritized for low income communities.

Measures include:

- Helping reduce the number of youth and adults involved in the justice system.
- Supporting juvenile and adult re-entry including health and mental health services, addiction treatment, housing and education/training.
- Providing “pre-entry” behavioral and physical health services to help keep young people out of the justice system.
- Prioritizing diversion by empowering youth to be accountable outside of the justice system.
- Providing evidence that jurisdictions are:
  - Helping reduce the number of youth and adults involved in the justice system.
  - Helping reduce the number of youth and adults involved in the justice system.
  - Providing evidence that jurisdictions are:
  - Helping reduce the number of youth and adults involved in the justice system.
  - Helping reduce the number of youth and adults involved in the justice system.
  - Providing evidence that jurisdictions are:
  - Helping reduce the number of youth and adults involved in the justice system.

North Star Indicator #9

Addressing trauma, building resilience and shifting investments from punishment to prevention

Cities and counties, with state and tribal partners, recognize the toxic effects of trauma, prioritize youth development and resilience and shift the allocation of public investments from punishment and punishment to health and prevention.

Measures include:

- Providing evidence that jurisdictions are:
  - Helping reduce the number of youth and adults involved in the justice system.
  - Helping reduce the number of youth and adults involved in the justice system.
  - Providing evidence that jurisdictions are:
  - Helping reduce the number of youth and adults involved in the justice system.
  - Helping reduce the number of youth and adults involved in the justice system.
  - Providing evidence that jurisdictions are:
  - Helping reduce the number of youth and adults involved in the justice system.

North Star Indicator #10

More youth and adults with positive community connections and less involvement in the justice system

This indicator measures positive connections to people and organizations that are supportive of youth and adults in their communities, and the extent to which BHC communities are able to reduce the number of youth and adults involved in the justice system.

Measures of youth positive connections to their communities will likely be tied to the longitudinal youth survey. Measures for adult positive connections are currently being developed.

Regarding the juvenile justice system, this indicator calls for measures of change in the rate of arrests, incarceration, probation, diversion, and/or entry to the justice system. Measures of change may include monitoring youth violence, recidivism, and/or entry to the justice system.

Measures for adult positive connections will likely be tied to the longitudinal adult survey. Measures for adult positive connections are currently being developed.